

Covetrus Announces Retirement of Matthew Foulston

August 11, 2022

PORTLAND, Maine--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Aug. 11, 2022-- Covetrus® (NASDAQ: CVET), a global leader in animal-health technology and services, today announced that Matthew Foulston, the Company's Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, has informed the company that he will be retiring from the company effective December 31, 2022.

Foulston's role at Covetrus caps off a strong career in which he has led technical, strategic and operational finance teams within a broad range of manufacturing, distribution and automotive companies. Since joining Covetrus in 2020, Foulston's leadership and depth of experience served the company well. "Matthew is a strong financial partner to our business, our leadership, our Board, and me. Plus, he's a great advocate for our employees – one example being his development of the intern and mentoring programs that will extend beyond the finance team throughout the organization. So, while I will be sorry to see Matthew leave, it's clear his impact will continue long after his final day at Covetrus," said Ben Wolin, President and CEO of Covetrus. "We appreciate Matthew's many contributions, and we wish him much enjoyment in his well-earned retirement."

"It has been great to finish up my career working with such a talented team in such a dynamic industry," Foulston said. "The sense of purpose and the long runway ahead for this business make Covetrus a very compelling place to work, and I look forward to seeing the Company's continued growth and great success."

A search for the role of Chief Financial Officer is underway, and Foulston is assisting in the process to ensure a smooth transition to his successor.
